Men's Reproductive Health: Homeopathy Has a Place

Dear...

As Valentine's Day approaches and I turn my thoughts to my husband, Perry. He has always been my rock, which is why I chose to write about men's health this week.

Ladies, as Valentine's Day comes around, know that even in love, homeopathy is here to help.

Love,

Such a delicate subject requires superior medicine. Homeopathy treats the whole person using safe, natural substances in a potentized form. Instead of medicating the problem, homeopathy addresses the entire person.

This means that digestion, skin, and sinuses are all connected. So, when a man has a problem that is experienced in one area, the entire person must be considered.

Homeopathic philosophy believes that the human body has the ability to heal itself when given the matching stimulus found in nature. The stimulus is in the form of a homeopathic remedy that is taken in pill form.

The correct homeopathic remedy will bring about the action that will put the sufferer's pathology to rest. It will also relieve other maladies that accompany the main problem.

Let's consider three of the most valuable homeopathic remedies for a most important issue that may occur in a man's life.

Caladiura is a remedy of repute that has been used for the inability to perform. The key to determining the choice of this remedy is the sufferer's demeanor. He is often one who experiences mental depression along with impotence and the new problem is met with a deepening of the depression.

The remedy Selenium has been shown to be of greatest value when the man experiences weakness after coition. This may not happen every time, but more commonly occurs after excesses. Accompanying exhaustion, there may also be prostate problems such as urine and seminal loss.

Agnus castus is reputed to be of value for men as they age and is noteworthy when the desire has been lost or impotence is a problem. Premature old age, where the genitalia are cold, is a characteristic that historically points to the need for this remedy.

Often, there is a history of an excessive sexual appetite earlier in life; but, in later years, this is missing. There may be accompanying anxiety and despair, particularly about health issues and especially his masculine ability.

Memory and mental dullness may also be present. A collapsed or broken down state that occurs after overindulgence in alcohol, drugs (prescription or over the counter), or in sexual matters may also be present in men who will benefit from this remedy.

Lycopodium is a fine remedy of repute in men's health. When sexual dysfunction accompanies a lack of confidence though there is an increased desire, this remedy can be considered. This situation can be particularly trying in old men who marry young wives and are impotent as a result of their age. There is often a corresponding abdominal bloating and distention that may be distressful after eating. Gurgling, gas, and belching are also a problem for this man.

Homeopathy is whole medicine that is chosen for each person on an individual basis. The correct remedy will stimulate the person's natural healing response to bring the body back to balance and heal itself. No drugs of questionable safety, no regular repeated use. Just a return to plain old fashioned well being so that the problem simply doesn't exist.

The gift of genuine health, what a great Valentine's gift!

Chico, California

I would like to take a moment to update everyone on our very successful event in Chico, California last month. We had an amazing turn out with a room full of welcoming people. I was so excited to be part of such a diverse group, all with one common interest, Homeopathy.

Not to mention the food was fabulous & so delicious. It inspired me to share my own Acorn Squash soup recipe on our blog.

Not only did I thoroughly enjoy speaking at this two day event but that I was also able to spend time with my family exploring all the different things that California has to offer. That is us, in the photo above, on a cable car in San Francisco!
