Joette Says…

Remember the old term “miracle drugs”? The first time we heard this was in reference to antibiotics. Unfortunately, the concept was taken to an extreme and every sniffle, cut, ear infection and UTI was considered an opportunity to throw the big guns at the immune system. Well, we know better now. It took half a century, but the populace is clamoring for better medicine and care. Consider, instead, homeopathy. It has a proven track record of no side effects, not even those that might show up decades later. Just plain, good medicine with a reputation for addressing the most stubborn illnesses.
