

Cataracts Halted, Even Improved with Homeopathy

Mario's vision was fuzzy;
But his thinking was clear

The logic seems simple, impeccable even.

If you can avoid cataract surgery, why not?

Besides, who wants another drug or medical procedure added to their daily list that for many, is so long that it unfurls like an ancient scroll.

Life shouldn't be measured by the length of your medical troubles, but by memories, deeds and adventures.

This opinion must run in my family because I have a number of relatives who are suspicious of drugs and such.

My cousin Mario is one of them.

Mario is a road trip enthusiast. Every few weeks or so, he'd plan a trip in Europe, skiing in Colorado or just trekking across the U.S.

No doubt he knew his eyesight wasn't great.

After all, he was in his 70s when his optometrist reported that he had cataracts.

When he got the news, he was crestfallen. The adventurer in him just wasn't finished.

His vision had started to become cloudy which he described as looking through a fogged-up window.

And the vistas he treasured just weren't as bright as they once were.

Discouraged, my cousin looked into surgery, but the possible side effects and the mandatory use of steroids haunted him for days after his consultation.

If things didn't go perfectly, he could be even further away from his lifestyle of driving adventures.

And worst of all, he'd actually feel old!

He decided he'd mull over his options.

That's when he called me.

I'd observed a method in Calcutta that could be of benefit to Mario.

The Banerji protocol for cataracts is Calcarea carbonica 200C mixed with Belladonna 3C, taken once daily for many months.

This could be the solution to my cousin's situation, so he began the protocol.

Now, I'm not going to tell you that this protocol will work for everyone. Nor will I tell you that it will take someone all the way back to perfect sight, but for a couple of bottles that cost under $20, to Mario (and, of course, me), it seemed a no-brainer.

The improvement was gradual. So gradual that he barely noticed it at first, but he still reported to me every few months that he was indeed taking his homeopathic medicines.

But then Mario mentioned that his worst eye seemed to be clearer. It was around this time that he felt more confident driving after dark too. This was not a psychological response, but a physical one.

His sight was improving ever so slightly and consistently over the months. More importantly, the progression seemed to have halted.

It's been a few years now and Mario has avoided surgery. His vision is not perfect, but it has improved enough that he is satisfied with his ability to drive in most conditions.

Last time I spoke to Mario, he was planning a road trip to Mexico. In his backpack was his pair of eyeglasses and his bottles of Calc carb and Belladonna for “just in case”.

This is how Mario took this combination remedy:

He already owned Calc carb 200 because his wife used it to uproot her allergies. So he simply purchased a bottle of Belladonna 3 and put a few pills of each in his mouth each day.
