As you know, I come from a large Italian family. Pasta was the staple food in our family, along with cassata cake, biscotti, cannoli, and ice cream.

You see the picture? Yes, diabetes was common in my family.

My uncles and even my father often struggled with the side effects of high blood sugar.

However, my father was the luckiest of his brothers, as I am a homeopath. He was able to get control of his sugar cravings with the homeopathics I gave him. Consequently, he lived until the full age of 90, free of the debilitating side effects of diabetes and the drugs often prescribed.

In my interview, I will give you seven remedies that I have used with success – with my father and many of my clients – over my nearly four decades of practice.

In this free infographic, I have provided seven of the homeopathic remedies I discussed in my interview. While I discuss the proper application of these remedies, a deeper understanding of them is required, which I offer through my free blogs and online courses.

Redefining Diabetes

Do you sincerely want to kick a sugar habit out of your life?
