California Here I Come!

Joette Calabrese a professional in homeopathy

I feel like I've hit the ground running this New Year's!

But I couldn't be more thrilled since I'm busy preparing for my intensive, 2-day seminar in Chico, California. The WAPF chapter of Chico Butte has invited me to teach mothers and others how they can be the healer in their families using homeopathy and plain old common sense.

This is my life's passion, so it's all very exciting for me.

And besides, who wouldn't be eager for the California sunshine? It's a welcome change from the cold, grey winter that settled into Western New York.

Feel free to check out seminar and registration details here. I hope you'll be able to join me and learn how YOU can become the sole healer in your family.

Maybe we’ll meet there!
