

Diane Jerimias, Chicago

I have been meaning to send you an email to thank you for fixing me, but I have had too much energy to sit at my computer!! Auntie Joette, I am so happy right now. I was a little skeptical at first because I just couldn't imagine not having a headache. But, after the fifth day of waking up without one, I started to think, "Hey this is really working!"

I just don't know what to say to thank you. I feel like I have my life back and that I am the old me. I saw my friends the other day and I was talking and laughing and smiling and I started to cry because I haven't done that in so long.

I am playing with the boys again and really wanting to play. I have my energy back and best of all I feel so in love with Billy again! Gosh, it makes me cry just thinking about how bad it really was. I just wish I would have spoken to you months ago! I am so in awe that some hormones off balance can actually change your life as it did mine.

I was starting to think my life was just going to be that bad. Ugh, I am so happy I talked to you and I just can't repay you enough. I am getting ready to take my second round of Sepia on Saturday. Things are looking up over here! I'll shout it from the mountains how happy I am!! Everyone can know. Thanks again for everything!! I truly am grateful.

Thank you thank you thank you thank you thank you!!

Love you- Diane Jerimias, Chicago