Donny Williams, Boston

After being in bed for 10 days, sicker than I've been in my life, I dragged myself to a clinic at school in Boston. My mom was so scared and worried and I was too weak to think.

The doctors said I had mono and that I should expect to be ill for at least a few more weeks, maybe even months, and that relapses many months later are common.

They said no medicine would help me, so I had to just wait with "enforced bed rest" to get better. Nothing could be worse for someone with my life.

That's when my mom called our homeopath, Joette Calabrese. I started the homeopathic remedy, Gelsemium 30. The very next day, I felt better by 50%! It was unbelievable!

By two days, I was back in school feeling better than I did before I got mono! That was two years ago and I never had the predicted relapse, even though I went on with my life in full swing.
