For many, my Gateway to Practical Homeopathy®: A Guided Study Group Curriculum has opened the pathway to health freedom, as students come to the invaluable realization that they can hold in their own hands the ability to treat their families' ills ... themselves.

It all began ten years ago.

It's hard to believe, but in 2016, I wrote the inaugural edition of the Gateway to Homeopathy. I intended for it to be what reading, writing and arithmetic are to proper, traditional fundamental education: the principles that will stay with you for a lifetime ... the tools and resources you need most.

Within a month, over 350 students had joined study groups, and I knew immediately that we were onto something.

You see, even as far back as ten years ago, there was a societal yearning to discover an alternative to conventional Western medicine, a desire for health care autonomy, and a hunger to learn homeopathy via a less esoteric, less complex methodology.

During my studies under the Banerjis – medical doctors whose clinic in Kolkata, India, treated over a thousand patients a day with homeopathy – I promised Dr. Pratip that I would bring homeopathy into the home by teaching mothers, grandmothers and others everything I possibly could.

And I've kept my promise, starting with the Gateway to Homeopathy.

A proof-of-concept decades in the making

The way I initially learned homeopathy almost 40 years ago was effective and exhilarating because I wasn't alone. A group of friends and I started a study group. We met every week for years, comparing notes, asking questions, discovering answers and learning, learning, learning.

My little group found it advantageous to use a now-out-of-print homeopathic study guide to ensure we all were studying the same information every week. We all were on the same page, literally and figuratively. And by being on the same page, we could remain focused on what we needed to learn. It also augmented our learning because the guide incorporated the perspectives of other great minds in the field.

So, years later, I wrote Gateway to Homeopathy as a means to guide others in replicating that same, successful learning method. The Gateway was (and continues to be) a study guide that takes individuals by the hand through foundational lessons in homeopathy. Once complete, a student is well on their way to developing the skills to become the health care provider for their family and friends.

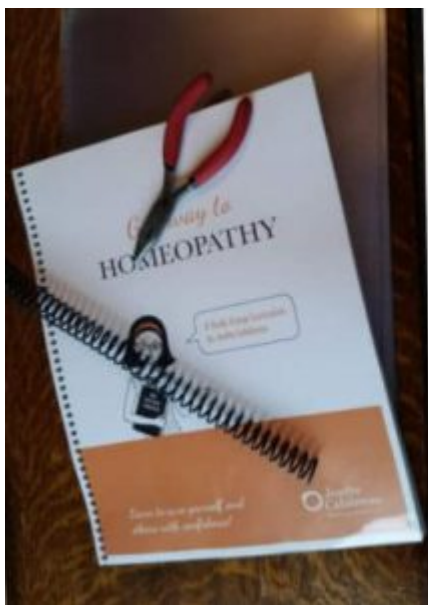

From humble beginnings

In 2016, we were a small, bootstrapped company. My office was attached to my home – a converted garage. My team, including Shannon and Eileen (whom many of you know from calls into my office), my husband, my kids and I spent countless hours printing, collating, hole-punching, spiral-binding and shipping the Gateway to Homeopathy study guides.

Yes. We did everything ourselves.

To hear Eileen tell the tale, punching those holes was the hardest part. It took tremendous arm strength to punch even just a few pages of each 175+ page book at a time. Then, any spare moment we had away from clients or the phones was spent on the tedious work of installing and bending the spiral binder.

The entire process was time-consuming, yes. But it was such fulfilling work ... knowing that our cause was bigger than any of us. We were changing society, one home at a time.

We were riding a wave. I truly believe we've contributed to the wave, but I also believe this has been an organic wave, too, because people are still looking for alternatives.

A seismic shift in thinking

The world has shifted, my friends. People have had it with the old ways. People are now questioning, and that's good. When we don't question, we more easily fall into other people's agendas – agendas that are not always in our best interest.

We know we're making a difference when schools and even other homeopaths want to associate with us. We've reached a point where we're recognized, and we have the Gateway to thank. Our study group curriculum raised the visibility – not so much of us, per se – but rather of regular folks just like you using homeopathy in the home. That's Practical Homeopathy®.

Indeed, learning homeopathy is the anti-anxiety remedy for moms. Instead of falling into, "My baby's sick! I don't know what to do. What should I do? I need somebody to help me!" educated moms can handle a childhood illness on their own. Instead of running to the ER or taking a synthetic drug of commerce, Mom knows what to do.

And for the record, Dads can know what to do, too! In 2022, we had our first all-male Gateway study group. Since then, even more men have joined our movement.

The educational confidence that Gateway to Practical

Homeopathy® provides is soothing to any parent who's freaking over family illnesses, while also checking the box of much-needed community. Associating with like-minded people in a study group allows students to grow together by sharing the ups, downs, successes and victories.

Plus, having a trusted study group partner to text in the middle of the night can be a true lifeline when baby's crying, and mom and dad's minds aren't functioning in top form.

As time marched on, a companion study guide was born: Gateway to Practical Homeopathy® II

To add to the foundational education in the Gateway curriculum in 2019, I wrote a companion volume: Gateway to Homeopathy II. This continuing education covers topics such as the manufacturing processes of homeopathic remedies, liquid dosing, Mother Tinctures, cell salts and the use of higher potencies. Plus, you'll learn how to address colds and flu, headaches, allergies, and homeopathy for emergencies.

And a new revision of Gateway to Practical Homeopathy® I

As you probably know, homeopathy is not capricious. It's not a flavor of the month that changes with the wind. Indeed, homeopathic medicines have been studied and employed for 230 years. The Cinchona officinalis Hahnemann used in the late 1700s is the same Cinchona officinalis we use today.

However, through the decades I've been in professional practice, I synthesized my clinical observations, my work with the Banerji doctors in India, the French protocols, Joe De Livera's "Joepathy," and a full measure of repertorization into a fully realized system – Practical Homeopathy®. I believe this simplified method is not only practical but also essential for the future of homeopathy.

So, in 2023, I revised the original Gateway to Homeopathy I to include my honed methodology, updated teaching techniques, and more protocols. The Gateway to Practical Homeopathy® I, Second Edition, has been even more popular than the first. So much so, in fact, that we have translated the Gateway study guide into Spanish and, coming soon, into German.

The word on the street about Gateway to Practical Homeopathy® is ...

But don't take it from me. Here are some emails my office has received from real students over the past decade:

"I can't tell you how happy I am to have taken Joette's Gateway to Homeopathy 1, Second Edition course. There is no way I could have learned the foundational principles of homeopathy and more in such a short time on my own. The classes gave me a clear understanding and a firm stepping stone to further my education in homeopathy. Joette made what seemed so hard for me to learn on my own easy, enjoyable, and fun. Thank you, Joette! You are a gift to me and have changed my life and that of my family, giving me the confidence, with your help, to learn more about homeopathy." – Diane S.

"In the last year and a half, I have taken Gateways 1 & 2 and also completed the allergies class. First of all, I can't even express how thankful I am that God led me to homeopathy at just the right time. As a busy mom of two young kids, I am beyond grateful for the time, care and dedication that Joette and the team have taken to make this accessible and understandable to regular people like me. I have successfully been able to treat my family and friends for a myriad of acute and chronic issues. Anyway, thanks again for all the knowledge that you share. Homeopathy has given my family so much freedom in such an unstable world, medically speaking. We have a thankfulness tree that the kids and I add leaves to each year, and you guys even made it on the tree." Abbie D.

"The Live Q & A [an optional component of Gateway study groups] with Joette was a positive experience. Joette is a great teacher and speaker. She is very enthusiastic about homeopathy and answered everyone's questions in a way that we could understand. The experience motivated me to continue to learn more. It was nice to be surrounded with so many like-minded people (students) who want to use homeopathy to improve their health and the health of their families and communities." Sharon S.

"I enjoyed GW1 so much that I decided to take it again from a different leader to meet more like-minded people." – Deborah G.

"I can say, without a doubt, that the contents of this study group have dramatically altered the course of my family's future health. I am absolutely astounded with homeopathy (what it is and what it does), and my paradigm of health has been permanently shifted. I literally see every aspect of health from a refreshingly new angle. My mind is blown! I feel as though anvils have been lifted off my shoulders. I now feel a new confidence in myself, my motherly instincts, my ability to have greater control not only in prevention but in the outcomes of accident and illness." – Charissa S.

Won't you join us?

Today, over 20,000 people have walked through the Gateway. Many have since continued their education through Protocol Courses and The Academy of Practical Homeopathy®.

However, Gateway to Practical Homeopathy® I remains our cornerstone. We certainly didn't realize that's what it would become when we printed off our first copy ten years ago. But in the ensuing decade, we've built a strong, supportive community of healers, and their numbers increase every day.

I hope you will join us in our celebration: 10 years of sparking curiosity, illuminating the pathway to health independence, strengthening families and forging leaders. Find experienced leaders, Discovery Ambassadors, to lead you through the study guide curriculum at FindAPracticalHomeopath.com.

Alternatively, Advocates for Homeopathy and other leaders can be found on the Joette's Study Group: Find your new Study Group Friends' Facebook page.

Or, once you've already purchased the study guide, you can find a study group by logging in to your "Gateway to Practical Homeopathy® I, Second Edition" portal page through The Learning Center. On the Welcome page, you will find a list of Joette's Ambassadors leading study groups along with when their classes are starting.

Pass on the good news of Practical Homeopathy®! Let's make the next ten years just as impactful as the last.

Warmly,
