Shopping with Joette

Want to know what products Joette loves and uses herself? You're in luck. Joette is sharing her favorite product sites with you and why she loves them. This is the perfect way for you to find the natural products that work for you and that will become a part of your home for years to come.

Radiant Life Company

I love these folks. A few years ago, my husband and three sons were at a Weston A. Price Conference and inadvertently sat at the same dinner table with the owners of Radiant Life. I had already been using their products for years, but this serendipitous meeting clinched my satisfaction with their business style. The upshot of our meeting is that I'm a pretty fastidious consumer, and their products meet all my expectations. For me, they are a one-stop shopping site for natural products. See for yourself what makes them such a great company. www.radiantlifecatalog.com

U.S. Wellness Meats

I’m often asked where I buy my meats, and my answer is that I buy from a few sources. I raise my own chickens, and we’ve been eating them for some time now. and I also get meat from some regional and local farmers. But when it comes to specific meats that I can’t find elsewhere, that’s when I go to U.S. Wellness Meats. I trust how they raise their animals, and I like some of their specialties. For example, I buy their pet ground meat patties for my dog, and I love their beef jerky for my family who’s always on the run. I’m also partial to some of their goat cheeses and steaks. I like to purchase in large lots, so the shipping is less, and then wait a few months before my next big shipment. This way, I always have some of their products on hand for a quick meal anytime. Visit their online store to learn more.