I'm not a believer or a disbeliever of homeopathy or modern medicine. I'm just one who needs to see results.

Two months ago, I was sick with a doosey of a cold/flu. And I finally started to feel like myself, except for one thing.

I had a plugged right ear that started when I got the fever. I couldn't hear anything out of it; even a month after the flu was over. I tried everything, but nothing made a difference.

Then I talked with Joette. She told me that Kali sulph 6x has a reputation for unplugging ears, particularly after an infection. So I took it every few hours and in 24 hours my hearing was 90% back! A few more days of the stuff and there's no plugged feeling and I can hear again!

Now what did I hear about placebo?
