We switched from conventional medicine to homeopathy in January 2007. We started going to our homeopath, Joette, for allergies for our children and me.

At that time, my home was in chaos. We have one son who had been diagnosed with ADHD, another in the category of ADD, our daughter had urinary reflux, another son had severe peanut allergy, another son, constant constipation.

My best description of the feelings I had after beginning with homeopathy that January was hope. Even my 4 year old son with the milk allergy stated on the drive home after his first appointment with Joette, "I feel hope, too, Mom!"

And the hope wasn't misplaced. Each of us has had dramatic and steady improvement since that time so that most of us have not had to return for follow-up visits.
